

PROFESSOR'S ADDRESS

No. of Scouts: 2

Equipment: 1 chair

Scout two is sitting on the chair.

Scout One: I am very pleased to be able to welcome Professor P Professing to our university the evening for the first in our lectures grouped together under the title, "Young people and their jurisprudential analysis of the capabilities of noble realising." Professor P Professing has studied this subject for a number of years and his advancement is so great that he is considered the eminent authority throughout the whole world. In preparing for this lecture Professor P Professing has looked back over more than thirty years to his schooling, his three degrees at Oxford, St Andrews and Yale, two doctorates, an advanced doctorate and visiting professorships in no fewer than nineteen universities throughout the world. He is so very capable in the extreme, articulate, lucid and well-versed in making the most difficult subject accessible and easily understood by those who are before him. Please give a warm welcome to Professor P Professing who will now give us his address.

Scout Two (stands up): Ahem. Thank you. I will now give my address. It is 16 Beech Avenue, Godalming, Surrey. Thank you. (Sits down.)
